From all indications the car winning the big Los Angeles-to-Phoenix road race on November 3 will have to successfully combine the climbing ability of an aero-piane with the endurance of a Western pony.

cow-pony.

W. J. LaCasse, a racing driver who participated in the 1911 and 1912 Phoenix races, has just returned from a path-finding trip with a party of Los Angeles newspapermen in a Lozies Six. La-Casses claims that this year's course presents more difficulties than ever, and states that careful driving on the part of contestants in the race will be necessary if accidents are to be avoided. According to the partification, the mountain route between San Diego and the Imperial Valley in California calls for the limit of racing bardiness and immunity to fear. Climbing the third mountain range on this stretch an attitude of 2,526 feet is reached. Then comes a remarkable drop to a point six feet below sea level on mountain grades that test driver and machine alike. The grade on this drop is fourteen sides long and some of the turns are so sharp that the driver cannet see five feet ahead of his car. In a score of places a silp of three feet would mean a drop of 1,500 feet to the bottom of a canyon.

For twenty miles out of Han Diego the rucing cars will be able to make that the work of the successed in turn by the trip through the desert. REV. G. F. PETER OFFICIATES. anday Evening Service Held at the Church of the Epiphany.

The Sunday evening service at the Church of the Epiphany, which Rev. G. Freeland Peter has made popular, was attended by a large congregation last night.

For use at the servine Mr. Peter had prepared for distribution to the congregation small volumes containing the form of Evening Prayer so arranged that hoth the members and the nonmembers of the Episcopal Church could take part in Il with case, and also the collections of pasims, the canticles, and some of the mission hymns. The use of the books has resulted notably in an increase of congregational singing, as well as in a general participation in the service.

Mr. Peter preached last night on Prayer.
